

Active Form:

Subject (doing action) + Verb (root) + Object (receiving action)

Passive Form:

Subject (receiving action) + be + Verb (past participle) + by + Object (doing action)

PASSIVE FORMS OF ALL TENSESPresent Simple

Some people claim that vaccines cause autism.

It is claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Present Continuous

Some people are claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It is being claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Present Perfect

Some people have claimed that vaccines cause autism.

It has been claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Present Perfect Continuous

Some people have been claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It has been being claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Past Simple

Some people claimed that vaccines cause autism.

It was claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Past Continuous

Some people were claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It was being claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Past Perfect

Some people had claimed that vaccines cause autism.

It had been claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Past Perfect Continuous

Some people had been claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It has been being claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Future Simple

Some people will/are going to claim that vaccines cause autism.

It will/is going to be claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Future Continuous

Some people will/are going to be claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It will/is going to be being claimed that vaccines cause autism.

Future Perfect

Some people will/are going to have claimed that vaccines cause autism.

It will/is going to have been claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.

Future Perfect Continuous

Some people will/are going to have been claiming that vaccines cause autism.

It will/is going to have been being claimed by some people that vaccines cause autism.